Seven Ponds Nature Center Presents:

Fall in the Little Smokies
Southern Ohio

October 16 – 21, 2022

Explore the edge of the Appalachian foothills in southern Ohio this fall with Seven Ponds. We will immerse ourselves in the ancient history of this area through its geology and culture. The gorgeous autumn leaf color and crisp, cool air will add to our experience. We will spend our time in streamside forests, rocky gorges, with ancient white cedars, and investigating stunning rock formations. This region of Ohio also boasts the highest number of mounds and complex American Indian earthworks in North America. This field tour is designed to allow us to explore at a relaxed pace, and take in this wonderful place using all of our senses.

Sunday, October 16
Participants should travel to Southern Ohio and arrive at the Shawnee State Park Lodge by late afternoon (Check-in is 4:00 p.m.). Our lodge is surrounded by 63,000 acres that make up the Shawnee State Park and Shawnee State Forest. This area was the former hunting grounds of the Shawnee People. The hills of the Shawnee, nicknamed “Ohio’s Little Smokies”, seem to roll away toward the horizon in a gentle blue haze. If you arrive early, you can explore the trails around our lodge. At 6:00 p.m. we will meet in the lodge for a short orientation meeting followed by dinner in the Lodge’s restaurant, The Smokehouse.
Monday, October 17

After breakfast at the lodge, we will carpool north and spend the day in the Highland Nature Sanctuary in the Arc of Appalachia Preserve System. The Arc of Appalachia is a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving the Eastern Temperate wildlands, and is currently protecting over 7300 acres. Highlands Nature Sanctuary is their oldest and largest preserve, at 3100 acres, and contains the breathtakingly beautiful Rocky Fork Gorge. Our first stop will be the Arc’s Appalachian Forest Museum which features large artistic murals interpreting the history of the Great Hardwood Forest. The Museum is also an entry point and orientation into the Rocky Fork Creek. This portion of the preserve was once a tourist attraction known as the Seven Caves, named from the numerous caves in the dolomite cliffs along the creek. After lunch, we’ll hike the nearby Barrett’s Rim Trail. This trail is a 2.5 mile loop which will descend into the gorge of Rocky Fork Creek, and follows along the base of a vertical rock wall in a section of the canyon called “the jewel of the gorge”. We will have the afternoon to enjoy the trail at a leisurely pace before returning to the Lodge and dinner.

Tuesday, October 18

After breakfast at the Lodge, we will head north to Fort Hill. This Ohio Historical Society site is managed by the Arc of Appalachia. Fort Hill protects a 2000 year old large earthen-walled ceremonial enclosure on its flat-topped ridge built by the Native People of the Hopewell Culture. This 1400 acre preserve also shelters the largest mature forest in Ohio. The 4.2 mile trail is considered a “hiker’s paradise” with its limestone boulders and cliffs bordering the Baker Fork, stone arches, and towering ancient trees. When we finish hiking, we will return to the Lodge where participants many rest or walk the trails around the Lodge. We will have an early dinner, and plan for a sunset outing at Copperhead Lookout Tower. This was the first fire tower built in Ohio in 1924. We are sure to have excellent 360⁰ views of the “Little Smokies”.
Wednesday, October 19
After breakfast, we will carpool north to Serpent Mound a site managed by the Ohio History Connection. This Mound is an internationally known National Historic Landmark built by ancient cultures. It is an effigy mound representing a snake with a curled tail. We will visit the museum at the site and walk the paved trails around the earthwork. There is also a short nature trail which winds down to a tributary of Ohio Brush Creek. We will lunch at Serpent Mound, and then head south stopping along the way at different preserves, parks, and oddities. We will return to the Lodge for dinner.

Thursday, October 20
Today we will stay close to the Ohio River which creates the border between Ohio and Kentucky. We will take a short hike through the Ohio River Bluffs (an Arc of Appalachia Nature Preserve). This property runs from ridge top to nearly the level of the Ohio River, and is a great example of a classic Ohio River corridor forest. After this hike, we will head over to Adams Lake State Park to lunch and walk the Adams Lake Prairie State Nature Preserve. This is a globally rare, sparsely vegetated, dry prairie that is situated on a highly eroded slope of Estill Shale. This short walk will provide another example of the many ecosystems that make up southern Ohio.

In the afternoon, we will venture over to The Wilderness, one of the nature preserves in the Edge of Appalachia Preserve System. This secluded 2.5 mile hike will move us through deep woods and past cool glens and gray cliffs of limestone. Part of the path winds for half a mile along the rim of a dolomite cliff that drops precipitously for 60 feet into the shaded gorge of Cliff Run. We will return to the Lodge for dinner.

Friday, October 21
This will be our last morning at the Shawnee Lodge. After breakfast, we will part for our safe travels home. Check out is at 11:00 am so move at your leisure.
